- The aim of this session is to review the impact that the ongoing global pandemic has had on clinical care and trials.
- The session has gathered clinical trial experts to review responses by sponsors, investigators and patients
- Unique challenges for sponsors that varied according to patient populations and geographical areas
- Video assessments provided a great deal of efficiency but the impact on patients was not always positive
- Restrictions impacted significantly patient behavior during trials.
- We investigate the effect of paused recruitment on data obtained from participants pre- and post-pause
- FDA and EMA regulators provide their perspective on evaluating the outcomes of trials affected by the pandemic.
