

- Professor Emeritus of psychiatry at the University of Toronto
- Faculty of the Institute of Medical Science in the School of Graduate Studies
- Recently Retired, Chief of Psychiatry at Humber River Hospital for 14 years
- Recipient of the Tanenbaum Distinguished Scientist Award in Schizophrenia Research
- Past President, Canadian College of Neuropsychopharmacology (CCNP)
- Awarded the College Medal for meritorious contributions in psychopharmacology research, teaching and services
- Served for 3 years as Founding President of the International Society for CNS Clinical Trials and Methodology (ISCTM) based in Nashville, USA
- Continues to be extensively involved in training, research and lecturing nationally and internationally
- Has published extensively including a number of books, the most recent of them is “Quality of Life Impairment in Schizophrenia, Mood and Anxiety Disorders” which has received excellent international reviews

2015 Andrew C. Leon Distinguished Career Award Recipient

A. George Awad, M.B., B.Ch., Ph.D., F.R.C.P.(C)

